Rating Data gives you real-time market pricing data from all PL Rating transactions. With Rating Data, you can choose if you want to see Aggregate or Market Basket data, or both. For privacy, all data is de-identified, which allows you to drill down into specific areas of interest and filter by a variety of risk factors.

Aggregate Data

See how competitive your quotes are versus quotes from other carriers.

- View your ranking for different criteria on quotes submitted to you from appointed agencies.
- Compare your pricing in the market today.
- Compete for the risks and segments your underwriting and actuarial teams are focused on.
- Get refreshed data on a monthly basis.

Market Basket Data

Gain a deeper understanding of markets you're interested in.

- Dig deep into the profile of specific risks you're interested in growing into.
- Separate and analyze data by a variety of risk factors.
- Gain new perspectives on the market around you based on data from an entire industry.

Workflow before Rating Data

1

An agency sends you and other competing carriers a quote. Where they decide to place their business is based on fit, pricing, and commission.

2

Without Rating Data, there's no way to accurately determine what other carriers are quoting — you only have your own historical data to compare against.

3

After analyzing your internal data, your underwriting and distribution teams come up with a winning price point. Without insights from Rating Data, you don't have a clear view of the market to help you expand into new areas or lines.

Workflow after Rating Data

1

An agency sends you and other competing carriers a quote. Where they decide to place their business is still based on fit, pricing, and commission.

2

With Rating Data, you have access to de-identified information that informs you of what other carriers are quoting for the specific line of business and which rates are winning.

3

Armed with this information, your underwriting and distribution teams can set better price points to win the agency's business. Plus, they can identify new areas where you'll have the best competitive advantage over other carriers.
